{Panel 1}

Co-optation of ADR: Has it Become "Cheap Justice"?

10:00 - 11:30 AM: Is ADR a form of "cheap justice"? This panel will look into the complicated balancing act between fairness, public accountability, and cost, and whether the parties' interests are appropriately addressed.

{Panel 2}

ADR in the Criminal Justice System

1:30 - 3:00 PM: ADR features prominently in the criminal justice system through negotiation (plea bargaining) and increasingly through restorative circles, victim-offender mediation and problem solving courts. This panel will examine how well ADR works in this context and how it can be optimized.

{Panel 3}

Quantitative and Qualitative Methods of Evaluating ADR

3:15 - 4:45 PM: In order to determine whether ADR "works," there must be a way to measure its effectiveness. But can the effectiveness of ADR be evaluated? And are quantitative or qualitative measures the appropriate method of evaluation?
